He worked in various positions in the Ministry and rose to Chief Engineer in September 2011. He also served NHAI as a Chief General Manager during September 2009 to September 2011, when he became Chief Engineer in the Ministry. He is presently the Additional DG in the Ministry.

Mr. Pandey has been responsible for completion of the remaining NHDP Phase-III to Phase-VII projects, and was given a major responsibility for the Bharatmala project of the Government of India with 65,000 km of NH network development, with its Phase-I for 28,000 kms. The experiences of NHDP in respect of road safety made NHAI to consider various issues, which led to significant cost escalation for the subsequent projects.
